DISTRIBUTION THE PROBLEM

Needs of Farmers the Theme of President Coolidge.

METHODS MUST BE CHANGED

Immediate Agricultural Problem, the President Says, Is to Bridge Over Difficulties Resulting From Abnormal Surpluses—Administration to Aid in Averting Repetition of Recent Misfortunes of Farmers.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The administration will omit no effort to prevent a repetition of recent misfortunes involving agriculture, but the farmer himself must readjust his methods of production and marketing. This was the essence of an address by President Coolidge before the meeting here of the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

According to the president, the immediate agricultural problem is to bridge over the difficulties resulting from abnormal and war-stimulated surpluses. He added:

"The agriculture problem of today is not on the side of production, but on the side of distribution. Too little thought has been given to this phase. Up to the present time the main emphasis of our agricultural education has been placed upon production. I believe that was right, because unless there is economy and efficiency in production, there is no need for thought in any other direction. But our experience of the last few years has demonstrated that it is by no means enough. The farmer is not only a producer, he is likewise a merchant. It does him no good to get quantity production, in fact it may do him harm, unless he can likewise have scientific marketing. I want to see courses in co-operative marketing and farm economics along side of soil chemistry and animal husbandry. I want to see a good farmer on a good farm raise a good crop and secure a good price.

"In a few years the natural increase of population and the inevitable tendency to industrialization will place us among the nations producing a deficit rather than a surplus of agricultural staples. We were fairly on the verge of that condition when the world war gave a temporary and artificial stimulation to agriculture, which ultimately brought disastrous consequences. Even today, if in making up our balance sheet we include our requirements of coffee, tea, sugar and wool, we already have a considerable agricultural deficit.

"It may not be generally known, but even now we consume more calories of food in this country than we produce. The main reason is that we do not raise near enough sugar. Our only agricultural exports of consequence are cotton, meat products and wheat, and as to the two latter, it must be plain that the scales will shortly turn against us. We shall be not only an agricultural importing nation, but in the lives of many who are now among us, we are likely to be one of the greatest of the agricultural buying nations. In this lies the assurance to the American farmer that his own future is secure enough. But he must readjust his methods of production and marketing until he comes within sight of the new day. Our immediate problem has been to carry him through the intervening period of abnormal and war-stimulated surpluses. After that, we shall face the real problem of our long future; the problem of maintaining a prosperous, self-reliant, confident agriculture in a country preponderantly commercial and industrial."

DRAWS 10-YEAR TERM

Mrs. Annora Yeoman Pleads Guilty to Manslaughter.

Mt. Gilead, O., Nov. 14.—Following her plea of guilty to manslaughter for poisoning her sixth husband, Lewis Yeoman, at Cardington, Mrs. Annora Yeoman was sentenced to a minimum of 10 years in the Marysville reformatory for women by Judge C. H. Wood. Mrs. Yeoman changed her plea of not guilty of first degree murder to guilty of manslaughter. She went on trial last Monday. Mrs. Yeoman's counsel, in a statement to the court before sentence was pronounced, asked for leniency. Judge Wood before pronouncing sentence said he had a certain degree of sympathy for Mrs. Yeoman and felt that if the case had gone to the jury for decision that the death penalty would not have been voted. Four of Mrs. Yeoman's husbands are still living. All of them divorced her.

WILLIAM M. BUTLER

Appointed Senator to Succeed the Late Henry Cabot Lodge.

ISSUES PROCLAMATION

Donahy Urges Religious Observance of Thanksgiving Day.

Columbus, Nov. 14.—Governor Donahy issued a proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving day. He said: "America must not permit the passing years to work a decline in the real spirit of the original Thanksgiving. This hallowed occasion should ever mean a day of prayer and praise; while it is also a time for feasting and mirth, that these should be relegated to its proper sphere and the humble giving of thanks accentuated. This predominant purpose of the day is forever honored. Ohio, grateful for her many blessings, and especially those of the current year, can best manifest her attitude to a Divine Providence by strict observance of the true spirit of Thanksgiving."

The governor asked that the holiday be observed with "fitting services in a church and home."

APPOINTMENT HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Democrats May Challenge Butler's Senate Seat.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Chairman Charles H. McGlue of the Democratic state committee filed with the clerk of the legislature a bill, the effect of which would be to limit to March 4 or until an election can be held, the term of William M. Butler as United States senator in succession to Henry Cabot Lodge. Butler was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Lodge yesterday by Governor Cox.

McGlue declared that, if necessary, the matter will be carried to the United States supreme court. He said there was no objection to Butler's being named for a "temporary" period. The Democratic party does feel, he said, that an appointment extending over two years passes the period that might be considered "temporary" and violates the federal constitutional amendment providing for direct election of United States senators. The legislature, which comes in in January, is asked to repeal this provision and efforts will be made to bring about an election between Jan. 1 and the convening of the next congress on March 4, the chairman said.

Record Crowd Expected.

Columbus, Nov. 14.—It was announced at the office of the athletic association at Ohio State university that standing room tickets will be sold to 7,500 persons for the Michigan-Ohio State football game Saturday. Tickets will be put on sale Saturday noon at the stadium. A crowd larger than that of two years ago, when 72,000 turned out, is anticipated tomorrow by the university officials.

Wheat and Corn Prices Soar.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Heavy buying in the wheat and corn pits of the Chicago board of trade sent prices soaring to new high levels for 1924. Induced by a Canadian crop report which indicated a lower yield than anticipated, May wheat sold at $1.63 a bushel just before the close of the session. May corn at $1.20 a bushel and July delivery at $1.21 also touched new high levels on the crop.

BORAH AT ISSUE WITH BURTON

Former Favors Extra Session of the New Congress.

OHIOAN SEES NO NEED OF IT

Idaho Senator Would Take Up Farm and Railroad Measures, the World Court and Tax Relief—Ohio Cities May Get Appropriations For Emergency Building Construction—Exportation of Automobiles.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), a white house caller, urged an extra session of the new congress soon after March 4 next.

The Idaho senator stated he thought farm and railroad measures, as well as the world court proposal, and perhaps tax relief, should be taken up at that time.

An opinion contrary to that of Mr. Borah was expressed by Representative Burton (Rep., Ohio), another white house caller, who said he saw necessity for an extra session and agreed that in addition to the appropriation bills such farm measures as are necessary can be passed at the short session. Mr. Burton discussed this question briefly with the president.

The house committee on public buildings decided to bring in an omnibus public building bill next month and will make an effort to secure its enactment before final adjournment, March 4 next.

The following recommendations are made in regard to appropriations for emergency building construction in Ohio:

Akron—Additional land to site acquired and new building; increase of authorization, $773,000.

Cleveland—Acquisition of site and construction of a postal station and building, $3,000,000.

Columbus—Additional land, $35,000; extension and remodeling, $185,000; total $220,000.

Canton—New site, $160,000; building, $140,000; total $300,000.

Lima—New site, $100,000; building, $50,000; total $150,000.

Marion—Additional land, $25,000; extension and remodeling, $150,000; total $175,000.

Springfield—Additional land, $100,000; new building on enlarged site, $600,000; total $700,000.

Zanesville—Additional land, $15,000; extension and remodeling, $185,000; total $200,000.

If the recommendations of the postmaster general and secretary of the treasury are carried out, congress will appropriate $5,933,000 for building purposes in Ohio.

The department of commerce reports that American automobile exports are increasing rapidly. "In the first nine months of 1924," it says, "exports of automobile products have been valued at $166,667,971. This figure approaches closely the total value of such exports for the entire year 1923, which was approximately $170,000,000. September exports were valued at $16,251,566, a slight decrease from the figure for August. Shipments so far this year have fluctuated materially month by month, rising again in August and once more receding very slightly in September. During September Australia held first place among foreign countries as purchaser of both American cars and American trucks, the quantity increasing very materially over August."

TWO MEN SLAIN

Cleveland Police Blame Feud For the Double Murder.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—Police are searching for three youths suspected of the murder of Louis Rosen, 29, and Adolph Adelson of Philadelphia, his brother-in-law, who were shot and killed in a garage in the rear of Rosen's home here. The suspects were seen to drive rapidly away from the Rosen home immediately after the shooting.

The bodies of Rosen and Adelson were found inside the garage behind a roadster, in which the two men had just returned from an East End cigar store, where they had been playing cards. Police believe the shooting was due to a feud. Adelson came here to visit the Rosens and to attend the wedding of a relative.

Judge Sater Retires.

Columbus, Nov. 14.—Judge John E. Sater, retired President Coolidge his resignation as United States district judge for the Southern district of Ohio. He had occupied the federal bench in Columbus for nearly 18 years. The judge will resume practice of law here with his old firm.

MANUEL QUEZON

President of Philippine Senate a Frequent Visitor to States.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Slayer Granted Reprieve.

Columbus, Nov. 14.—Governor Donahy granted a 14-day reprieve to James Brady, Sandusky wife-slayer, under sentence to be electrocuted on Friday at Ohio penitentiary. The reprieve, which postponed the execution date until Nov. 28, was granted to permit further investigation of Brady's case and to enable the clemency board, now at Mansfield, to advise with the governor relative to final action. Counsel for Brady has appealed to the governor for a commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

Car Fare Increased.

Akron, O., Nov. 14.—The new four-year transportation franchise, framed by the Northern Ohio Traction and Light company and approved by the voters Nov. 4, became effective here. Fares on bus and streetcars in Akron were increased from 5 cents with penny transfers to 7 cents cash, four tickets for a quarter, or 17 tickets for a dollar, with universal transfers.

Losses Damage Suit.

Cincinnati, Nov. 14.—A jury in the United States district court returned a verdict for the defendants in the suit of Miss Mary U. Geis of Brookville, Ind., against the Cincinnati Traction company for $27,250 damages. Miss Geis claimed damages for personal injuries received when she was thrown to the floor of a streetcar here two years ago.

Manslaughter the Verdict.

Kenton, O., Nov. 14.—The jury in the murder trial of Mrs. Dora Barnett, 22, returned a verdict of manslaughter, with a recommendation for mercy. Mrs. Barnett was tried for second degree murder in the fatal shooting to death of her husband, Frank Barnett, on Sept. 20, during a quarrel in their home near Alger.

Shot Traffic Policeman.

Bowling Green, O., Nov. 14.—Louis F. Rupp, 38, was found guilty of shooting Motor Patrolman Clarence Downs with intent to wound and was sentenced to serve from five to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary. The shooting occurred last April near Toledo after traffic officers had stopped Rupp on a speed charge.

Body Found in River.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—The body of a well-dressed man, about 35 years old and weighing about 160 pounds, was found in Cuyahoga river. Foul play is feared because the pockets of his trousers were turned inside out, indicating that he had been robbed. No marks of violence were found.

Miners in Need.

Pomeroy, O., Nov. 14.—The Meigs county Red Cross society is making appeals for clothing and supplies for needy families. Because so many miners have been idle so long much suffering is expected when the winter sets in.

Neck Broken by Fall.

Columbus, Nov. 14.—Clarence Stevens, 65, was killed instantly when he fell 10 feet from the landing of an outside stairway at his lodgings here and broke his neck.

At Jackson, Mich., Mortimer Bassett, 26, is said to have confessed he killed his father, Elmer Bassett, 58.

Miss Martha Meeker was tied to the bedpost of her hotel room in Greenwich, Conn., with her own stockings by a gem thief, who took her diamonds.

TO ENFORCE LAW, SAYS HAYNES

Prohibition Enforcement Policy
Not to Be Changed.

COMMENTS ON THE HILL CASE

Holding of the Federal District Court Will Not Require Any Change Whatever in Existing Regulations, the Prohibition Commissioner Declares. Acquittal of the Maryland Congressman.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declared there would be no change whatever in the federal law enforcement policy and no relaxation whatever in the efforts to enforce the law in all such cases.

This statement was made following the acquittal of Representative Hill of Maryland on charges of making wine of 11 per cent alcoholic content.

Prohibition enforcement officials indicated the Hill decision would be ignored by the department.

"I am clearly of the opinion," said Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, "that fruit juices of the alcoholic strength of that admitted to have been made by Representative Hill are in fact intoxicating and this unit will take notice of all such cases as are made to appear hereafter as heretofore, and the law enforcement will proceed as before. It should be borne in mind that Representative Hill was acquitted by a jury on a question of fact and that there was no holding by the judge to the effect that wine of 11 per cent of alcoholic strength is not in fact intoxicating."

Regarding the opinion of Judge Soper in the same case that the manufacture and possession of cider and non-intoxicating fruit juices, for exclusive use in the home, are not forbidden, provided they are non-intoxicating in fact, Commissioner Haynes asserted this view was in entire harmony with the holdings of the prohibition unit. "The holding of the court will not require any change whatever in existing regulations," he said, "and therefore none will be made."

The federal jury in the Hill case at Baltimore decided that the manufacture of wines and cider of ordinary alcoholic content in private homes is permissible. The jury reported to Judge Morris A. Soper after 20 hours' deliberation that it had found Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland, the defendant, not guilty on each of the six counts in the indictment found against him. The counts of the indictment had charged Hill specifically with manufacture and possession of intoxicants and with creating a public nuisance by having intoxicants in his home in violation of the Volstead law. Hill provoked the trial to test the power of the Volstead act over home brewing.

Hill declared after the verdict that the finding gave him an opportunity to go before congress and demand modification of the Volstead act and the passage of his 2.75 per cent beer bill, on the ground that the Volstead act, in its present form, discriminates and is unfair.

OFFICIALS BEGIN PROBE

Alleged State Police Organization in the Mahoning Valley.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 14.—According to report here more than 2,000 residents of the Mahoning valley are enrolled in a so-called state police organization, which is alleged to be headed by Colonel E. A. Watkins of this city. Members of the society were among those arrested at the Niles disorders when they sought to use police power, which they claimed belonged to them as members of the state police organization.

Colonel Watkins during the summer announced here that he had taken over the charter of an organization that formerly existed at Kinsman, O., near here, and was granted under an obsolete section of the Ohio law as a protection against horse thieving. Watkins at the time said that he was recruiting officers for the corps.

Prosecutor Harvey Burgess of Trumbull county charges that each member of the so-called state police is charged $17 and that he is investigating to see what becomes of the money. Mahoning county klan officials deny that Colonel Watkins has any connection with their organization.

Three Bitten by Dogs.

Lebanon, O., Nov. 14.—Three children bitten by dogs while on the street here were given the Pasteur treatment.

ATTACKS FALL

Prosecutor Roberts Opens Argument For the Government.

Los Angeles, Nov. 14.—Owen J. Roberts, assistant counsel in the government's suit to break naval reserve oil leases, opened the argument of the government in the alleged fraud and conspiracy case involving former Secretary of the Interior Fall and E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, in granting of leases on the Elk Hills naval reserves of California to Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum company.

Roberts declared that Secretary Fall had in mind to make these contracts other than by competitive bidding, "as shown by the naval reserve policy letter of Oct. 25, 1921."

"In October and November of that year these two men were often in consultation," Roberts said. "First, they were discussing the high rate of 55 per cent royalties on a small strip lease which Doheny held in reserve No. 1. Second, they were discussing tankage at Pearl Harbor. Third, they were talking about additional leases."

Referring to the $100,000 loan made by Doheny to Fall about the time the leasing proposal was under discussion, Roberts said: "This has been said to be a loan. If it was, it was an improper one. If I were to make a loan I would send a check. Doheny could have gotten credit with Blair & Company (from which the $100,000 was withdrawn) if he so wished. Instead, he sent his most trusted person, his son, to Blair & Company for currency, to keep his own name out of it. No one will ever know when that note was torn or why."

Roberts branded the defense claim that the signature was torn off to protect Fall in case the Dohenys should be killed during a trip west, as childish.

EMPLOYMENT IN OHIO

Department of Labor Forecasts Improved Conditions in Near Future.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The monthly employment survey of the department of labor announces that Ohio industry should be on a firmer basis by the middle of November. The report says: "Some of the major industries in Ohio are operating on a curtailed schedule. By the middle of November it is expected industry will be on a firmer basis and this situation will be overcome. An appreciable letup in activity was reported in the steel industry. Building continues on a large scale, employing resident tradesmen. The textile industry shows some improvement over last month. There are still many coal miners out of employment, as only a few mines have started operations. The demand for farm help is well taken care of, as the farm season has nearly closed in some parts of the state. Although there has been a decided falling off in the demand for rubber workers, there has been no slump in the manufacture of rubber products."

Demand For Licenses.

Piqua, O., Nov. 14.—Township clerks over Miami county say that the demand for hunting licenses this year is greater than ever before. It is probable that in excess of 3,000 hunters will be ready for the season Saturday.

Profiteering Not New.

Present-day profiteering is not a novelty. It was practiced in all ages whenever an opportunity offered, and even by surgeons, as Sir D'Arcy Power, the eminent British surgeon, told his audience. He mentioned a saw-bones in 1849, John Arden, who made a large fortune out of his patients. This surgeon charged £1,000 in the money of the time for an operation, and exacted in addition £40 a year for as long as the patient lived, and two changes of raiment. The names of his patients fill two pages of an old book. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Value of Varnish Long Known.

Varnish as a preservative, made from gums, is by no means modern, for a so-called varnish was entombed in wrappings around forms when mummies were first laid away in ancient Egypt. And in the Nineteenth century B. C. temples on Thebes were decorated with paintings in which varnish had its part. The magnetic quality found in amber was long ago supposed to lend richness of tone to violins which were varnished with a mixture of amber and alcohol. Zanzibar gum is the nearest approach to amber in clearness, and often beautiful bugs are found embedded within its clear substance. Such a curious thing as the tail of a chipmunk, with each hair spread as if to the breeze, has been found embedded in Zanzibar gum.

Married His Early Love.

My parents and I moved to a new neighborhood and when I started to school the boys made up their minds to have some fun with the new boy. They were at their sport during the noon hour when a girl who was older than they came to my rescue. I thought a great deal of her after that, but kept my thoughts to myself. She graduated from the grades that year and I saw no more of her for 14 years, as she went away to school and I to school, and to make my way. At the end of that time we met at a public Christmas tree in our home town. Five months later we were married in that same town. That was 25 years ago.—Exchange.

Radio Activity.

Men given to the study of radio activity suggest that the electric conductivity of the atmosphere is largely, if not entirely, due to the radio active emanations from the earth's crust, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. In support of this idea they mention the fact that in closed cellars and deep holes and wells the conductivity of the air is sometimes fifty times as great as that of the normal air. Another suggestive fact is that on days of low barometer, when the smaller pressure of the atmosphere favors the escape of emanations from fissures in the ground, the conductivity of the air increases. It is thought that the startling electric phenomena occurring over an active volcano may be due to a radio active emanation accompanying the escape of the volcanic gases and vapors.

Shocks Caused by Moods.

Shocks cause moods. Every shock calls up all the memories caused by former shocks of the same nature and excites the passion it is connected with into activity. Moods can result only from a shock on some sense. A stronger mood will always supplant a weaker one. Sometimes a shock of high intensity, as anger, will fall while a mood of lower intensity, but greater persistence, such as love, is in progress. The anger mood locks out the love mood, and only anger memories and imaginations rule the mind. At length these grow weak and disappear and the love mood, with its memories and imagination, return to thought.—Exchange.

FREE GOLD FISH

(Including Fish Bowl.)

We are giving away a crystal bowl containing two gold fish, with the purchase of a fifty cent box of Lac-Lax, the delicious candy laxative. Children delight in these lively gold fish, the goldiest we could find anywhere. They are fascinating to grownups, too, and the clear crystal of the aquarium reflecting the golden flashes of alert, busy little inhabitants adds an ornamental touch to the home. We couldn't think of a more acceptable gift with which to introduce this very mild and pleasant laxative. And a laxative of this kind is very important at this particular time. Lac-Lax are mild and harmless, nothing habit-forming about them. Grown folks like them and children really delight in taking them, for they are just like mint lozengers.

Psychology of Color; Tints of Our Clothes

Color, like music, speaks a universal language, says the Kansas City Star. If you buy a blue hat, you say one thing; if you buy a red one, you say quite another. Psychologists tell us that every thought of the mind has its appropriate tint; and that is why certain color symbols have come down to us, unchanged, through the ages. Poets, too, particularly Shakespeare, supreme of the "painter poets," are appreciative of the color language. So, whether you consider the colors you choose from the poetic, artistic or psychological point of view, you will be interested to know something about their symbolism when you go a shopping.

The analogy of color often is drawn to the seasons of the year and the time of day or night, as for instance, black, by analogy to night and darkness, is the symbol of grief and death. Black is melancholy and sober, but of great strength. No color has so much power to impress as black. Gray, the color of dying fall, denotes fear; and green, through physical analogy to the shades of spring, youth and hope.

If a man really cares for a woman, it is said that he loves to see her in white. Why? Because, in the color language, white speaks of purity, innocence, goodness.

Take blue. This color is said to signify piety and sincerity, calm, deep still and solid. It is the symbol of constancy. Blue is a tender and sedate color, even when most brilliant.

If colors speak, red shouts. It is the most positive and assertive of all colors. It connotes ardent heat, splendor, power. Chinese symbolism has it that red is the emblem of the passion of the Lord, signifying as it does, love, power, dignity. Red is the military color, significant of bloodshed and war.

Yellow, expressive in its brightest shades, for the better thoughts and things, is joyous and uplifting; when sallow and dull, it is symbolic of envy and jealousy.

Purple, "royal purple," is symbolical for dignity, stateliness and kingly power. It manages to be pleasing, even though pompous.

Various tests have been made to see what colors, if any, might be called favorites of most people. For wearing apparel, black and blue predominated; but red ranks high in the list.

Plaids Playing Part in Fashions of Today

Until recently plaids were relegated to the wardrobe of the juvenile members of society, but this season has witnessed a change of heart toward these decorative designs and in the sheerest stuffs, as well as in the more usual woollen and cotton plaids, they play an important part in the fashions of the day.

One French designer is responsible for several extremely pretty models fashioned of plaid chiffon, while another makes a stunning coat dress of plaid taffeta in shades of red, brown, green and yellow. Nothing could be smarter or more striking than a three piece costume of blue twill in which the gray plaid lining matches the straight belted tunic that reaches almost to the hem of the skirt.

Another clever way of using plaids is in the form of an evening cape made of plaid taffeta in pastel colors. This is cut on circular lines and is trimmed with a deep flounce of black chantilly lace. It is worn over a frock of pale blue taffeta.

An Extra Hat Ribbon

There are many ways of changing the aspect of a sport hat, one of which consists of adding a band of wide black satin ribbon across the front of which large flowers are embroidered in gay wools. The ribbon ties in a bow in the back.

Mexican Beetle Is Spreading in East

Little Can Be Done to Control Most Serious Pest.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Continuing its spread, long prophesied by the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Mexican bean beetle has extended its range eastward in Virginia to Craig and Carroll counties, being now nearly half way across the state. In West Virginia it had advanced from the southwestern border of the state eastward to Marshall, Tyler and Wetzel counties, covering about three-quarters of the state. In Indiana it is only found along the southeastern border of the state in Floyd, Clark and Jefferson counties. In Kentucky it extends over practically the entire eastern two-thirds of the state. In Ohio about the southern three-quarters of the states is infested, infestations ranging as far west as the southwestern corner of the state in Butler and Hamilton counties, and northward to Hancock, Wayne and Tuscarawas counties. It has just invaded southwestern Pennsylvania, being found in Washington and Green counties. In Wyoming the pest has extended its range 30 miles north of last year's infestation.

The seriousness of this pest has been frequently described and there seems but little that can be done to control its rapidly increasing range. The department recommends magnesium arsenate spray or dust as the most promising control measure, but advises plowing under heavily infested fields as soon as the crop is off.

Moisture in Silage Is One Important Requisite

It is essential that there should be sufficient moisture present in fodder at the time it is being placed in the silo to provide the water requirement for the ensiling process and leave the surplus necessary to have amply moist, well-made silage after the fermentative and cooling processes have taken place. With sufficient moisture present in the ensiled mass there is little danger of the fermentation temperatures running too high. Corn in the glazed stage, or dried out through freezing or long delays in harvesting, will require liberal wetting. The shortage in plant juices can be made up by the application of water in quantity sufficient to thoroughly wet the cut fodder. Water is best applied by running a small stream directly into the fodder cutter while the fodder is being passed through and blown up into the silo. With water under pressure, a valve to control the flow and a section of garden hose, the process of wetting the cut fodder is easy.—L. Stevenson, Ontario Agricultural College.

Storing Alfalfa Hay Is Always Important Task

As a rule, I would judge it best to allow alfalfa hay that is put in the mow to a depth of about 8 or 10 feet to remain there for a period of three weeks before additional hay is added. I am referring now to hay that is put up while still in a semi-green condition. With this period, the heating process should, for the most part, have "spent itself."

In many sections there has been so much rainfall this season that the air is very humid, and care should be used to refrain from storing alfalfa hay that is damp with dew or rain, or that is too green. Where this is done, the heating may occur to such an extent as to blacken the hay and spontaneous combustion might occur. It is also important that the hay be spread evenly and uniformly in the mow.—L. F. Graber, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

FARM FACTS

It isn't the total production, but the yield per cow, per hen, per acre, that counts.

Don't blame it all on the cow. Maybe you are not feeding a balanced ration.

It has been found that a few constructive breeders can do more than many so-called breeders.

Lambs differ from hogs and cattle in that the trade always demands them fat; they have to be fat to get good prices.

Surely the man without a silo has more reason to be concerned about the weather these days than has he who possesses one.

A cow testing association usually ends in the members weeding out the poor producing cows that fooled their owners by strutting around like a porter house steak on four legs.

When animals get sick they need careful attention. In many cases they will require medicine, and in most circumstances the administration of medicine should be under the direction of a competent veterinarian.

Freshly cut silage in a partially filled silo produces a poisonous gas that may result in death. Air currents stirred up by the blower will dilute the gases sufficiently or drive them from the silo. It is then safe to enter.

What Else Should She Do?
A curly-headed tot named Evelyn, three years old, was asked by her mother if she had been at the hair tonic bottle and she replied, "Yes, mother, I did use it—my dolly's hair is coming out in bunches. I had to do something to stop it."

—WARNING—
Moths are very destructive. We would advise having your clothes cleaned before packing away for the season.

To Clean Furniture.

Remove the dust from the crevices with a painter's brush with long bristles. Wipe the surface with a soft cloth wrung out of warm suds of white soap. When dry, pour a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and paraffin oil into a saucer, dip the paint brush in the mixture just wetting the tips of the bristles, and remove the surplus by squeezing the end of the brush for an instant in a piece of cloth. Go over the carved portions with this, and treat the plain surfaces with a little of the same mixture applied with a piece of cheesecloth. Finish by polishing vigorously with a piece of flannel or velveteen.

DAIRY COWS

Pickaway County Shows an Increase of 4.7 Per Cent.

Pickaway county's dairy cow population is increasing according to figures announced by the Blue Valley Creamery institute. The statement covers an area embracing approximately one-eighth of the state in this section and is believed to hold true for the county proper.

A 4.7 per cent gain in the number of dairy cows two years old and over is noted for the district over the preceding year, while the increase for the state as a whole was 4.0 per cent as compared with 1923. The entire United States shows an increase amounting to 6 per cent, government figures show.

The number of heifers 1 to 2 years old as compared to the total number of cows in this district seems to be above the average, indicating the intention to bring more young stock in to milk in the near future.

In citing these figures the institute calls attention to the fact that the United States needs 320,000 more cows every year if production is to keep step with the normal growth of demand for dairy products. There are 1,412,000 more mouths to be fed in the United States with every passing year and with the increased consumption of dairy products per capita, this added number to the nation's herd will barely suffice to meet the increased demand.

NEIGHBORS

"WHO is my neighbor?" the querulous lawyer asked the Christ, and it was the simple story of the despised Samaritan which was told him to illustrate the point. It is a story familiar to most people, no doubt. A certain man sets off for Jericho along a road and through a country difficult, dangerous, beset by perils. He is held up on the way, beaten, robbed, stripped of his clothing and left bleeding and broken by the roadside. Thirst and hunger and pain rack him, but the way is lonely and the travelers few.

In time a priest, educated, pious, well-fed, comfortably clothed comes down the road and hearing the groans of the unfortunate man lying by the way walks over and gazes at him curiously.

"How unfortunate," he probably murmured, but the man was no friend of his, he had been a fool to take such a journey alone and unprotected. Anyway it was the business of his friends to look after him, and the virtuous priest walked on.

It was a Levite, a religious aristocrat, who came next down the road. Hearing the groans of the injured man he walked discreetly on the other side so that his ears might not be annoyed by the cries of the sufferer or his body made unclean through physical contact with him. What was unpleasant, he would avoid. He was the selfish, self-satisfied, self-complaisant citizen.

It was the Samaritan, despised and socially outcast, from whom nothing should have been expected, who recognized the demands of brotherhood and whose tender heart turned toward the unfortunate man. He was a neighbor to him.

There was a letter in the mail this morning from John, asking for a loan of "three dolers." He was sick in a hospital in Hot Springs he said, and needed a few comforts not supplied by the management. He would return when he came north in the spring.

John, you should know, is a "knight of the road" who does our house cleaning every spring. His buttons are not all on tight, I'm afraid. Lending him money is not a wholly safe investment, I'm sure. John has few neighbors. But he does his work faithfully; he is loyal and honest, and just now he has fallen among thieves of a sort who have robbed him of his strength and his power to make a living.

"Better send it to him," Nancy said and I, thinking of the Good Samaritan went out and mailed him the "three dolers."

'APE MAN' SEEN CLIMBING TREE

Scientists Plan Expedition to Capture "Missing Link" in East Indies.

New York.—The mysterious ape-man which has baffled all science in its endeavor to prove the Darwinian theory has been found in the Dutch East Indies, according to J. Van Herwaarden of Holland, who asserts that he came upon one of these creatures recently while hunting on the island of Poeloe Rimau, in the southernmost part of Sumatra.

Mr. Van Herwaarden's observations have so impressed the scientific world that expeditions are being organized by several institutions for penetrating these regions in search of the tribe he has discovered.

If Mr. Van Herwaarden's conjectures are correct the so-called "missing link" will be a term of the past and evolutionists will have living evidence upon which to base their arguments. Scientists have been seeking traces of such a being, dead or alive, since the discovery of the fossils of the Neanderthal man.

Relating his encounter in a recent edition of De Tropische Natuur, he says:

"In October, 1923, I traveled in the subdivision of Banjoemas and the Koeboe regions and visited the island Poeloe Rimau, the greater part of which is given in concession to G. Fischer. Often early in the morning and sometimes during the day I went out in search of a deer or a pig, without result, although I saw plenty of tracks to encourage me.

Saw It Up a Tree.

"Once, after having waited and watched for over an hour, I glanced to the left and noticed something move in a not very tall tree, standing all by itself in a small clearing. For a good view of the object I walked around the tree and clearly saw a dark haired being standing on a limb with the front part of his body leaning against the tree, as though it wished thereby to hide itself and prevent detection. This surely must be a 'Sedapa,' I thought. I was naturally quite excited. At first I only stared at the beast and waited. While I had my rifle in readiness, I tried by calling and shouting to attract the Sedapa's attention, but it refused to budge. I tried stamping against the tree trunk, but with no result. I put my rifle down and started to climb up the tree. When I was about five or six feet above the ground, I noticed a movement in the object. It moved slightly away from the main stem, bent itself forward and sideways, so that I had occasion to observe its head, its forehead and its eyes, which looked into mine. At first its movements were slow and deliberate, but after it had seen me it acted as though nervous, and moved about quickly.

"In order to better observe the strange creature I climbed down again. The front of the creature was also covered with hair, as well as its back, although the color of its front hair was lighter. Its very dark head hair reached down below the shoulders, almost down to the middle of the back, and was fairly well kept and straight. Its head seemed to be somewhat more pointed toward the top than that of a human; the brown-colored face was almost entirely hairless, while the forehead was rather high. The eyebrows had the same color as the hair and were strongly developed. The eyes seemed to be normal, were dark, and very mobile, much like the eyes of man. The nose was broad with fairly large nostrils, but not at all unsightly, and reminded one of a Karle's nose. The lips were entirely normal, but the mouth was wide.

"Thought I Murder to Shoot. The molars, which I was able to notice through the nervous movement of the mouth, were better developed than with us. The front teeth were regular. The chin was somewhat tapered down. Only once had I a chance to observe the right ear, which looked exactly like a small human ear. The hands were slightly covered with hair on the outside. The arms reached to within a short distance from the knees when in a standing posture. I did not have a good opportunity to see the feet, but the toes were well formed. The creature's height was about five feet.

"The face had nothing repulsive about it, nothing ape-like, although the nervous twitching of the muscles reminded me of the movement of a scared ape. I had calmly spoken to the creature as one would do to a dog or a horse, but this did not seem to quiet it. When I leveled my rifle at it I heard a wailing cry, 'Hoo Hoo!' which was immediately answered with similar cries from the forest not far distant.

"Again I laid down my rifle and climbed up the tree. When I had nearly reached the lowest branch the creature quickly ran to the end of the limb on which it had been standing, swung itself out and dropped to the ground from a height of about ten feet. Before I had had an opportunity to reach the ground and grab my rifle the animal was easily ninety feet away from me, running for dear life while emitting sharp, hissing sounds.

"Many will probably think me childish when I say that when I saw the 'missing link' of the poor creature over my rifle barrel I did not fire. I aimed again, but the courage failed me. I had the feeling as if I was about to commit murder."

EAGLE TEAM

Good Game Promised Sunday With H. A. C., of Columbus.

The Eagle football team on their return to the home lot on next Sunday will take on the Hill A. C. team of Columbus. This Columbus aggregation after a rather uneventful start hit their stride recently and on last Sunday at Marion, played a tie with the strong Independent team of that place.

On paper the home team should win this game, but it promises to be a hard fought contest and will prove well worth seeing. In any event this game should draw a good sized crowd, as it will be the next to the last chance to see the Eagle team in action on the home lot.

The team is facing a big financial loss on the season, so far, and sport lovers should show their appreciation of the efforts made to give the town a team by seeing these last two games.

Possibly you remember his hooting up ringing that bell for just a minute while you ran breathlessly into the school room, just avoiding being tardy? Perhaps you men remember how you loved to go down there by the furnaces and chat with old John just a few minutes?

Well this same "Old John" did these things and many more down in that same building for over forty years. He is now broken financially and physically and needs your assistance. He has been confined to his bed for many months due to a stroke of paralysis.

A Christmas fund is being raised for John Fohl and we are sure that every former student of Everts will wish to do his bit. A paper is being circulated and when this is presented to you, please help.

In case this paper does not come to you, one may be found in Friedman's store and one Hamilton & Ryan's.

AMUSEMENTS

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Mason Bros., production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at the Grand opera house matinee and night Monday, November 17. Mason Bros. have successfully solved the problem of combining the old and the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves nothing worth retaining of either the straight method of the circus method. All the worthy features of the old landmarks are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed making it more coherent. This, with the introduction of a host of high class specialties, thoroly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment. It will be a real loss to miss witnessing this production, which is just a little better than the one you thought the best.

PLEUKHARP DIVORCE CASE.

The divorce case of Walter Pleukharp against Ida Hles Pleukharp which had the attention of the Hocking county common pleas court for three days, ended Wednesday evening, November 12. The plaintiff was given the divorce after a hotly contested suit. Alimony was agreed upon out of court.

The plaintiff is a merchant engaged in business at South Bloomingville. He frequently comes to this city where he buys his supplies.

Barton Walters of this city and Edwin D. Ricketts of Logan, represented the plaintiff; Judge Charles Dresbach of this city and F. N. R. Redfern, of Adelphi were attorneys for the defendant.

Unfortunate Experiment.

I was hurriedly preparing to attend an important meeting and was having a time with my refractory hair, which persisted in sticking straight up in a stubby tuft on top of my head, writes a correspondent. My wife suggested—and insisted upon—flattening it with the pomade used on our son's sleek pompadour. But—my hair is white and the pomade red, and they refused to blend. In vain my wife tried to rub it in or rub it out. My hair became a regular barn red with white stripes. The remedy was a stiff brush, hot water, strong laundry soap and lots of elbow grease, but my scalp still glows like a ripe tomato.

AUTOS WRECKED

Many Accidents at David Six Farm on Columbus Pike.

Barely a week passes that an auto mishap does not occur on the curve at the David Six farm two miles south of Ashville on the Columbus-Chillicothe pike.

Two occurred the past week in which the autos ran thru the newly erected fence, wrecking the fence and both autos.

The last was on Sunday morning when Mr. Six was near and he immediately protested against the frequent damages to his fence and informed the speeders that they should settle for the fence. Thereupon Mr. Six was informed that the driver was a member of the Columbus Auto club which would settle the damage.

Mr. Six informed the guilty driver that he should settle forthwith or he would call the sheriff and the cash was produced. The driver had said prior that he had the money to purchase a new auto and Mr. Six decided upon an immediate collection.—Ashville News.

KEEPING WELL

BOTULISM

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

WE HAVE read a good deal in newspapers during the last three or four years about botulism or botulus poisoning. In all cases, the poisoning was traced to canned or preserved food. Usually it had been eaten by a group of people, all of whom showed signs of the poisoning, the majority of the group dying.

Because we hadn't heard about this type of poisoning until the recent outbreaks, we think it is a new thing. On the contrary, cases of botulism have been recorded for more than a hundred years. Until recently it was traced to some form of animal food, since that was the only kind of food preserved in earlier days. It was often traced to sausage and for that reason was called botulism, from the Latin word "botulus" meaning a sausage.

Investigation has proved that the botulus poison is formed in the food by the growth of a germ. The spores of this germ are found in the soil and may be deposited in various ways on any fruit, vegetable or animal object. These germs thrive best where the air is excluded and this condition makes their growth in canned food especially favorable.

The widely used method of home canning of placing uncooked fruit or vegetables in jars placed in a large container and steaming them for a few hours, will not destroy the botulus germs if they happen to be on the article being canned. The heat is not sufficient.

The commercial canners in the country have spent large sums of money in investigating the causes of botulism and have instituted improved methods of gathering and transporting their products and of canning and sterilizing them. The methods used by these firms in canning—steam under pressure—destroys the germs. This is why there has been little trouble from botulus poisoning from canned goods that are bought.

When botulus-infected food has been eaten, symptoms of poisoning usually appear in from eighteen to twenty-four hours. The acute stomach symptoms, distress and vomiting, accompanying most cases of food poisoning, are rare. The characteristic symptoms are a sense of fatigue, prostration, weakness, dizziness and headache. The eyes are usually affected and dimness of vision or even complete blindness is caused. Death usually occurs within from two to ten days.

Don't take any chances with this form of poisoning—fatal in the majority of cases. Eat no food which has a suspicious odor or taste. Any canned, smoked or dried food which gives cause for the least doubt as to its wholesomeness should be left alone. When in doubt, throw it out.

Paper of High Importance.
H. G. Wells in his "Outline of History" points out that the manufacture of paper is a question of far more consequence than printing. Knowledge used to be transferred orally from one person to another, or, as Mr. Wells puts it, "a little trickie from mind to mind." Think of the meager supply of information the world would have at that rate and how facts would change from all semblance to the original if passed on in that fashion. It was the Chinese who invented paper some two centuries B. C., but a good quality was not made in Europe until the Thirteenth century in Italy, and a hundred years later in Germany. And afterward came printing with movable type.

Dutch Bricks Lasting.

William Elliot Griffiths, in "Brave Little Holland and What She Has Taught Us," writes: "After the Romans left and the barbarians triumphed, brick making became one of the lost arts. In the Rhine delta, the Dutch revived the art of molding clay into oblong forms and baking them into stone. Their material lay at hand in the rich beds deposited during centuries in the sluggish river bottoms. They made brick houses, walls, pavements and road beds. So hard are the Dutch bricks burned that the common name is 'klinker.' Many of them have defied the teeth of time for ages." A large number of brick roads built during Napoleon's time are still in existence and in good condition.

MOTHS! MOTHS!

What are they? Most people know but do you know? A solution for the protection of your clothes during the time they are not in use? You no doubt have noticed that moths will not work just in one spot but will eat a little here and there that is proof that there is something there they like. A sure prevention is to have your clothing thoroly cleaned that destroys all moths; even the eggs or other germs that may be in the garment then pack them or hang them in a moth proof bag which we furnish free with each suit, coat or overcoat we clean.

Books—Old and Rare.

Imprimis, the searcher for rare books must be able to recognize one when he sees it. As few people possess the expert knowledge which enables them to recognize, in a pile of books, what is valuable and what is not, it is advisable and generally profitable, to secure expert advice before disposing of any considerable collection of old books. Nor is it well to expect, as the shrewd old Yankee proverb puts it, that there is a bass under every lily-pod. In most old attics in New England there are collections, large or small, of aged books. The chances are that they are valuable only as waste paper; yet again, they hold the chance of a find.

Origin of a Marriage Trousseau.

One of the earliest evidences of outfitting for the wedding is found in Genesis in the story of Abraham's servant Eliezer bringing handsome jewels to Rebecca as a seal to the marriage compact. A trace of the custom may be found among the early Eskimos, where the bridegroom must supply his bride with all the clothes necessary for the "honeymoon." In Rumania, clothes and shoes are a very important part of the gifts to the bride. Largely from the customs practiced in the latter country, but also from Italy, Sweden, and Greece, the idea of the marriage trousseau sprang.

with that "fresh air" taste

Delicious—and so beautiful in their even shape and coloring. And little wonder! For they were baked with "fresh air"—in the wonderful oven of the Estate Gas Range. The fumes of burning gas never enter this oven—only fresh air, heated and sterilized by the exclusive Estate method, touches the food.

And this heated fresh air is distributed so uniformly throughout the oven that no matter in what part you place your baking, the same uniform results are certain. No "pot-watching", no shifting pans—the oven ends all this worry.

Decide today you'll be one of the many thousands of good cooks using the Estate. We'll gladly show you the range and all its features.

Poe as a Romancer.

The reader who chanced in youth to come upon one of Poe's finer stories is not likely to have forgotten its impression on his unjaded sense of mystery and beauty. Nor are there many who in mature years, and in this heyday of the short story, first become acquainted with the "Tales of the Grotesque and the Arabesque," but must realize the power of their enjuring charm. Taken together they are the fullest exhibit of their author's genius, if not their highest; and if the highest is to be seen in his poetry, which fairly may be debated, the prose tales with their greater volume and diversity lose nothing in comparison.—Stedman.

How Sects Grow.

Probably many religious sects rest on just as trivial differences in belief. Two men, prominent in church work, were traveling through a sparsely settled community when they noticed two churches immediately opposite each other. Stopping a native they inquired why there were two churches for so few people. "Well, it's like this," he replied. "The church members on the right believe that Eve tempted Adam, the ones on the left believe that Adam was a rascal from the beginning."—Columbus Dispatch.

The Carat.

This tiny standard of weight, although not one person in a million ever makes practical use of it, possesses great prestige because of its connection with diamonds and other precious stones. But how many of us have any clear idea of the weight represented by a carat? In England it is customary to reckon 15 1/2 carats to the ounce, troy. This makes the carat equivalent to 206.8 milligrams, or 3.1683 grains. Attempts have been made to secure general recognition in all countries of a metric standard carat of 200 milligrams.

Object Lesson.

Staid and serious Mary felt keenly responsible for the deportment of her younger sister, Margaret, who was entirely lacking in a sense of decorum. At a children's party one afternoon Mary was horrified to see her sister chewing gum with all the vigor and abandon of her nature. Hastily sweeping the offender into a corner, Mary pointed out a third little guest who was managing her stick of gum with commendable moderation and restraint. "Margaret," she said severely, "I want you to notice how a lady chews gum."

Squirrels and Toadstools.

An English naturalist reports that squirrels are fond of fungoid plants. His observation of the animals in their natural haunts showed that they ate with evident relish the Fly Agaric, a mushroom deadly poisonous to man. It was noted, though, that they ate only the stalks of the plants, leaving the umbrella, or cap, untouched. This raises the question as to whether the factor of safety lies in the immunity of the animal or in the fact that the poisonous substance is concentrated in the rejected parts. If the latter be true it reveals an interesting feature of the instinctive discrimination of these animals.—Scientific American.

Good Logic.

The young man was a trifle. He liked the girl but did not seem to pick out any one of them to devote his time and attention to. A friend decided to take him in hand and stop his trifling. "Why don't you marry your ideal and settle down?" he asked. "I can't," was the young trifle's reply. "Helen has hair just the shade I'm crazy about. Mabel has eyes that are my ideal. I admire Clare's lips and I enjoy Bessie's conversation. My trouble is I can't get all the ideal qualities I want wrapped up in one girl."

Ecclesiastical Corrections.

A young American tourist stepped into a shop in a Scottish town one Sunday recently to buy some candy for a Scotch lassie of his acquaintance, and as soon as the customer ahead of him had been served he asked for chocolate creams. "I dinna sell chocolate creams on the Sabbath," the old dame behind the counter said, severely. "But," the young man protested, "you sold candy to the woman who has just gone out." "Aye, some ecclesiastical confectionery, but nae chocolate creams," the old dame declared. "Some what?" gasped the tourist. "Ecclesiastical confectionery—that is, peppermint drops, pan draps and ginger lozenges," she graciously explained, and added sternly, "but nae chocolate creams."—American Cookery.

"Take It Easy."

A great many young folks make hard work of things that should be perfectly easy, and as long as there are plenty of really hard duties to be done, it seems a pity to make hard work of the rest. One of the arts of life is to learn to do our work in the easiest way, saving on the simple tasks strength to apply to the hard duties.

Pyramus and Thisbe

By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

"OH, DEAR! How I wish I could take a ride!" Sarinca sighed stormily.

"Well, why don't you?" Aunt Susan asked placidly. "Lady Jane Gray isn't working—exercise 'd be better for her than standing stilled all day."

"Ugh! All she's fit for is crowbait! I wouldn't be seen on her," Sarinca flung back.

"Of course, if you want to show off—" began Aunt Susan.

"I don't! Only—not to be a scare-crow!" Sara broke in, tears running over her rosy cheeks.

"It comes of being an honest man's daughter. Don't forget that!" Aunt Susan said, head up, eyes flashing. "Too honest to try standing from under a load of security debts your grandfather had put on him. I'd be proud—remembering a thing like that."

"I—I—can't! I'm young," Sara sobbed; "nineteen—and I've never had—anything."

Aunt Susan swallowed something hard in her throat. She loved this quicksilver child, dearly, for all she had found her a trial all the ten years she had cherished her. "Susan, keep her safe. She's all that's left me," her brother had said when he bade them good-by. Three months had stripped him of everything. His wife, his twin sons, their grandparents—all had been instantly killed in a motor accident, leaving him a burden of debts and grief that ought to have crushed him utterly. Terribly shaken, he had somehow lived through it, keeping his head unbowed. "I shall come back—living or dead," were his last words.

A motor horn sounded impatiently outside. Sara darted to find out its meaning. In a minute she was back, white, breathless, saying brokenly: "I can't believe it—but my Great-uncle Julian has come to take me away—for good."

"You are willing to go with him," Aunt Susan shot at her, "after he has waited so long?"

Sara nodded. "You won't blame me, after you see their car—and my aunt's clothes!"

"But you are—your mother's daughter," Susan said with a hard breath. "Be sure I won't lay a straw in the way of your going. Only—when your father comes—"

"He won't ever come! He must be dead," Sara cried, flinging herself upon her aunt's breast.

"He will come—living or dead," Susan interrupted; "and he will know I did all I could for you."

Sara went quickly, but not before Aunt Susan had spoken with the rich kin. They were of the fairest surface, eagerly gracious, insisting that shortly she must come and pay them a long visit, but she distrusted them.

Sara wrote daily all through the first week, then the letters slackened, but Aunt Susan did not wonder. One of the letters made Aunt Susan start violently—it mentioned the name of the man whose treachery had caused her brother's ruin. He had been youngish then—say thirty-five. At forty-five Sarinca would tempt him mightily, with her fresh untouchedness, her elfin charm. But when Jim, her brother, came back the next day, joy drove all else from her mind for a week. Aged, weather-beaten, smiling rarely, speaking little, he seemed content to bathe himself in her devotion. Sara's absence grieved him, but not bitterly. "She is young—and starved for pleasure," he said. "Let her take her fill." Sister Susan asked no questions. It was enough for her to have him back, alive and sound. "You shall hear everything—after I am rested," he had said at first coming.

A month from his coming they sat in June moonlight. Suddenly across the narrow lawn came running figures—man and woman—hand in hand and panting for breath. Ten yards off the girl called tremulously: "Oh, Aunt Susan, Aunt Susan! I've come back home! If it is my home still."

"Your home always," Aunt Susan said shakily. "Enough that you are here—you need not tell why."

"But I must!" Sara cried, dropping the man's hand. "You see—I married—or else I couldn't ever have got away." Then all in a huddle came the whole story. Those in authority had tried to coax her into marrying Judge Tanner. When she had refused flatly, they had locked her up, telling her marriage was the door to freedom. But young Deering, the private secretary, had come to her help—it had been love at first sight between them—he had got a license and a magistrate, with them scrambled up a ladder to her barred window—they had joined hands through the bars, been duly married, and got away under threat of the law. "And I came straight to you—I shall never go away again," Sara said, lifting her head a little. All through the recital it had been buried in her aunt's lap. As her eye caught her father's face, she flung herself upon his breast.

A long minute of silence—then Jim had to explain a bit. Uncle Julian and Judge Tanner, it appeared, had found out that he was coming home—enormously rich—due in two months, hence their haste. He had beaten them, thanks to young Deering, who was his close friend, set to spy upon the pair. "And you did even better than I hoped," Billy, said Mr. James Graham joyously. "I meant to have you for a son-in-law all along, but didn't dream you youngsters would get the drop on me." "All's well that ends well," Billy answered—and none gainsaid him.

OUTPUT OF MOTORS WORTH $3,163,327,874

Factories' Report Shows
New Production Peak.

Washington.—Production of motor vehicles in the United States staged a comeback last year, after a slump in 1921, and reached a new peak. The value of the industry's output in 1923 reached a total of $3,163,327,874, according to figures in the biennial census of manufacturers, announced by the census bureau. This was an increase of 89.3 per cent over 1921.

Manufacture of almost three times the number of closed passenger automobiles as were made in 1921, 22.4 per cent decline in the number of electric vehicles produced, and an increase of almost six times in the output of public conveyances, such as motorbuses, sightseeing wagons and cabs, featured the year's developments.

The number of establishments with products exceeding $5,000 for the year was 351, compared with 385 in 1921. Michigan, with 54 establishments, led the country, while Ohio had 46, Illinois, 32; Indiana and New York, 30 each; California, 28; Pennsylvania, 26; Wisconsin, 20, and Massachusetts, 14.

Wage earners employed averaged 241,356, an increase of 68 per cent over 1921, and wages paid totaled $406,730,278, an increase of 83.2 per cent.

The number of gasoline and steam motor vehicles produced was 3,888,838, as compared with 1,590,499 in 1921. Passenger vehicles numbered 3,472,420, valued at $2,277,830,046, and commercial vehicles numbered 402,408, valued at $295,868,831.

Open touring cars led in the passenger vehicles produced, with a total of 1,782,992, while closed passenger cars numbered 1,201,316. Roadsters and runabouts numbered 373,203, sport speedsters 58,944 and other varieties 2,709, while public conveyances numbered 12,878. Of the business vehicles, delivery wagons numbered 27,890 and trucks 252,394, of which the largest number were from one to two and a half tons capacity.

Automobiles valued up to $500 formed more than half the output of passenger vehicles, the number being 1,727,958. From $500 to $800 the number was 814,000; from $801 to $1,500 there were 664,189; from $1,501 to $2,500 the output was 1,701,948 and from $2,501 to $3,500 it was 30,903, the latter class being the only one to show a decline in number, which was 7.5 per cent. From $3,501 up the number was 11,337.

Happy in Poverty, Wealth Parts Them

Iron Mountain, Mich.—After long years of toil and sacrifice, during which the now aged couple lived to gather happily, skimming here and there, denying themselves of every worldly pleasure to accumulate wealth, the home of Joseph and Suzanna Tamborini of Iron Mountain has been broken—by wealth.

When success had crowned their years of effort to possess themselves of wealth husband and wife begrudged each the other's share. The quarrel found its way into the divorce court.

A pot of gold, kept buried in the basement of the Tamborini home, was the spark that set off the turmoil which had its ending when Judge R. C. Flannigan ordered that all property owned by the husband and wife should be sold at public auction and the proceeds divided between them. The hidden hoard amounted to $2,700. This money, the husband asserted, was appropriated by the wife.

The husband, the court declared, had never known a day of rest, a vacation throughout the years of his married life, and only once did his wife leave her toil.

Mrs. Tamborini made a trip to Canada. The husband asserted that with her went the contents of the pot.

Famous Fort in Apache Country Now Is School

Fort Apache, Ariz.—The rattle of the saber and the thunder of the hoofs of cavalry horses at Fort Apache, Ariz., famous outpost of frontier days, has been supplanted by soft voices of children attending a government Indian school.

The fort, with its 67 stone buildings, has been transformed into an Indian educational institution and has just opened its autumn term with a total enrollment of 450 Navajo and Apache pupils. It is located on the Apache reservation where school facilities were badly needed.

Fort Apache was attacked by Indians August 31, 1881. A captain and 11 soldiers died in repelling the assault. It has been headquarters of several famous Indian fighters, including Generals Crook and Miles. Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood was stationed at Fort Apache as a military physician early in his career.

Ruins Reveal Romans as Capable Dentists

Richborough, England.—Archeologists excavating the mighty foundations of Richborough castle, the Fort Rutupse of the Romans, in an effort to uncover evidence of the duration of the sojourn of the Romans in Britain, have discovered a delicately fashioned dentists' probe, exactly like that used by present-day dental operators.

A British museum expert, who is helping with the excavations, declared the old Romans were quite up to date in their methods of dentistry, and that evidence had been found that they used gold filling.

RED CROSS

Annual Roll Call is Now on in Pickaway County Chapter.

Yearly the American Red Cross invites all the people to enter its ranks and thru membership take part in the great humanitarian work performed by this organization.

The annual roll call of Pickaway county chapter, is now on with T. D. Krinn s roll call chairman. Mr. Krinn made a most efficient chairman last year and it is his earnest desire to have a renewal of all members and many new ones added.

A duty is resting upon all to aid the ex-service man and his family and we should make it unmistakably clear the debt we owe every American soldier for their lofty, unselfish sacrifice in wartime call.

In the year the chapter has been in active service it has been able to assist many ex-service men in obtaining from the government, hospitalization, compensation, home treatment or vocational training. It has brought into the county in back compensation over $7000 and monthly awards ranging from $8 to over $100 per month, according to the per cent of disability.

The Red Cross has proved to be an indispensable instrument for the alleviation of suffering and you should give it your generous support. The membership fee is $1.

Inspiration for National Flag?
The original troop standard presented to the First City troop of Philadelphia by Captain Markoe, in 1775, and now preserved in its armory, is the earliest example of the thirteen stripes being used in an American banner, and is acknowledged by flag historians to possess the best claim to having been the inspiration for the national flag. The First City troop is the oldest organization in the United States that has maintained a continuous active military existence and taken part in every war in which volunteer cavalry has served.—Detroit News.

You need these goods---and we need to sell them. That is the condition we have to meet---there was but one thing to do and we have done it nobly. We have made prices that will bring you in and put the goods out. We have cut deep---reduced everything sensationally to figures that Circleville has never attempted before in a store like this.

Suits, Overcoats, Shirts, hats, Underwear---everything is in this Sale. It's a Sale to the finish that will bring men and their families from all over Pickaway County. COME! COMPARE.

Here are a few of the items---hundreds of others that will attract another storeful of men tomorrow.

$17.50, $23.50, $33.50 and $42.50
